Performance Review

In June 2024, the return of the Fund came from short-duration sovereign and quasi-sovereign bills as the yield curve remains inverted.

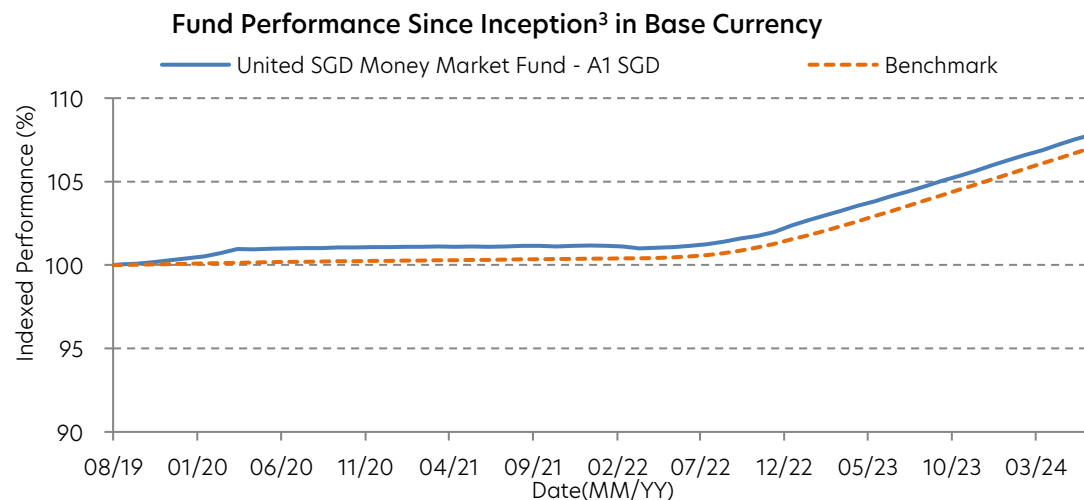

Portfolio Positioning

We continue to stay up in credit quality, maintaining our preference for defensive sectors with resilient balance sheets, credits with leading market shares and of systemic importance.

The Fund will continue to: 1) Focus on companies that have good access to capital markets and have defensive business models; 2) Invest up to 50 per cent of the Fund in corporate bonds for the purposes of enhancing return to the portfolio; 3) Maintain the average duration of the Fund at six months; 4) Keep 3-5 per cent cash for liquidity; and 5) Hedge foreign currency risk to Singapore Dollar.

Analyst Insights

The new positions we added to the portfolio in June 2024 were mainly Monetary Authority of Singapore (MAS) Bills that mature in the next 3 months.

As shown on the left charts, the biggest increase in the sector allocation changes for June 2024 was in Government (+0.52 per cent). In terms of country allocation changes, the Fund had the highest increase in Singapore (+0.52 per cent).

Market Review

Government bonds: US Treasury (UST) yields tracked lower across the yield curve in June 2024 as the market shrugged off a hawkish US Federal Reserve (Fed) dot plot and took comfort in the softer-than-expected Personal Consumption Expenditures (PCE) deflator and consumer data. The 2-year and 10-year UST yields closed at 4.76 per cent (-12 basis points, bps) and 4.40 per cent (-10bps) respectively in June 2024. Interest rate markets are now pricing in about 40bps Fed funds rate cuts by the end of 2024.

Corporate bonds: JP Morgan Asia Credit Index (JACI) Investment Grade credit spread widened to 131bps (+10bps) due to the pullback of risk sentiment on rising political and election risks in Europe and the US as well as increased new issues in the Asia-dollar primary market. The new issues pressured credit spreads in the secondary market as investors switched to new bonds with higher on-market coupons.

The issuances of Asia ex-Japan G3 currency bonds (bonds issued in US Dollars, Japanese Yen, or Euros) picked up at US$19.3 billion in June 2024 (May 2024: US$17.3 billion, June 2023: US$6.2 billion) as issuers took advantage of tight spreads (relative to historical average) and lower UST yields. New issues may also have been front-loaded ahead of possible higher UST volatility leading up to the US election in November 2024. Notable issuances include Hyundai Capital America (US$3.75 billion), Indonesia Sovereign (US$2.35 billion) and LG Energy Solution Limited (US$2 billion). Total issuances were US$88 billion year-to-date, 18 per cent higher compared to US$74.6 billion year-on-year (y/y).

The tightening in credit spreads year-to-date has brought valuations to relatively rich levels since the Global Financial Crisis in 2008. We expect Asia investment-grade spreads to trade sideways to marginally wider in the second half of 2024 and adopt a more defensive stance in terms of credit risk exposure. That said, all-in yields are still attractive and continued negative net supply expected for 2024 should act as a positive technical factor for Asia credit markets.

Investment Objective
